

In his second town meeting held in Findlay, Congressman Dick Durbin, D-Springfield, addressed a variety of topics ranging from Social Security to tax reform. The Findlay town meeting was one of ten the congressman was holding in the area in two days.

Durbins tackles Social Security questions during town meeting

Topics ranging from free trade to tax reform to Social Security were covered at a town meeting conducted by Congressman Richard Durbin, D-Springfield Tuesday in Findlay.

This was Durbin's 180th town meeting since he was elected to the House of Representatives, and his second in Findlay.

Durbin said one of the major concerns in Congress was the trade legislation. He pointed out that the U.S. imported more food than they exported last year. A total of 105,000 manufacturing jobs have been lost in Illinois. "Americans will buy anything... but they won't buy from us," he said.

The congressman said Congress wants to make sure trade is a two way street. He said the president has been told that the present situation cannot continue. "It's our responsibility to (change the situation) for our kids."

On the subject of tax reform, Durbin said the legislation is headed for committee. He will look to see if the tax reform bill will help "the middle class and farmers. Individuals are paying the lion's share of taxes."

Durbin wants to see tax relief for working people and for businesses to expand. It will not be a simplification of the present system. He does want to make it a fair system.

Some businesses, he pointed out, with big profits pay no taxes. Big business must put something back into the system. There is real inequity, he said. Small companies pay their fair share, he wants to make sure those who make a profit pay something."

The subject of the "notch years" for Social Security recipients was also addressed. A special category of individuals born between 1917 and 1921 receive less money. This was passed before Durbin was elected to congress.

After 1921, the recipients receive even less than those individuals in the notch years. Durbin promised to review the matter when he returns to Washington.

It would cost $90 billion to pay back those individuals in the notch years. He wants to give more Society Security if possible. He also wants to build up surpluses for the "baby boomers." Durbin said, "I want to do what's fair, but not bankrupt the Social Security Administration."

James Baker, the U.S. Secretary of Treasury took $77 billion out of the Social Security fund. Durbin said the money had to be paid back with interest.

When asked at the town meeting about honesty he said, "We're all giving a little." He will consider bringing it up in Congress and will work on the Social Security problems.

On the subject of crops, it was brought out that elevators don't have room for the crop that's going to come in this fall.

The congressman was asked why more ethanol can't be burned and why Brazilian imports of ethanol can't be kept out of the country. He said we've got to increase markets, and there is also a need for Detroit to make cars that burn ethanol.

On the status of the Individual Retirement Account tax deduction, he was asked, "why allow them to take out IRA's (as a deduction) and then take them away?" Durbin replied, he was in favor of keeping the IRA deduction and supports it.

There were two individuals attending the town meeting who were upset about the way the government has handled federal civil service employees. One had worked for the government 22 years and now they want to change retirement rules and regulations. New federal employees have to pay into Social Security since Jan. 1, 1984. There was no support in Congress to make those changes.

Tax reforms affect payout at retirement and this means tax liability on the people who hadn't anticipated it before.

Also, there is no cost of living increase for anyone in the retirement system ages 55 to 62. Durbin objects to this, he believes everyone should be treated equally, and there should be full cost of living increases for Social Security recipients and federal employees.

Congressmen have a different plan. They support both their pensions and Social Security and are often accused of "double dipping." Durbin answered they don't get the full benefits of either system.

Durbin refused to comment on questions asked about Stevenson for Governor.

Next week is 'Sports Week' for summer rec participants

The theme of next week's activities for participants in the Findlay Summer Recreation Program will be "Sports."

Monday, July 7 has been designated "Balloon and Bean Bag Day." On Tuesday, July 8, "Olympics Day" will be held on the grounds of Findlay High School. Prizes will be awarded.

Summer recreation program participants will be involved in the "A to Zebra" reading program on Wednesday, July 9. The program is under the direction of Susan Vadakin. There will be boy versus girl sports.

The field trip will be held Thursday, July 10. Findlay and Moweaqua summer recreation youth will travel to Shelbyville where they will go to the Shelbyville Bowling Alley, play a wiffle ball game in Forest Park, eat a sack lunch and go swimming at the park pool.

This week's activities revolved around the theme "Independence Week" in honor of the Fourth of July holiday.

On Monday, the children made egg carton crafts, played croquet, horseshoes, bean bag toss and twister. They also delivered decorated cans and posters for donations to the restoration of the Statue of Liberty.

Glen Wright spoke to the summer recreation program participants on Tuesday. He told the children about basic training and special paratrooper training. In other activities, they wrote a letter to President Ronald Reagan.

On Wednesday, Lonnie Matlock spoke on the Civil War. Firecrackers were set off, and a reading program was started.

The field trip on Thursday was to Shelbyville to visit the firehouse, courthouse, driver's license facility and to Forest Park for lunch and swimming.

Program director Debbie Spellman reports that 45 children are registered for the program with an average of 25 children attending each day.

Benefit set for Ruth Hubbartt

A community-wide benefit for Ruth Hubbartt will be held Saturday, July 19 in the basement of the First Christian Church.

A meal will be served starting at 4:30 p.m. and will last until all of the food has been served, according to one of the benefit organizers Chris Tippit.

On the menu for the benefit is barbecue sandwiches, cheese salad sandwiches, ham sandwiches, baked beans, potato salad, cole slaw, potato chips, deviled eggs, pie and drinks.

The benefit is sponsored by the Willing Workers to help raise money for the Hubbartts. Tippit stressed that while the Hubbartts do have insurance to cover some of Ruth's expenses, there are still a lot of bills to pay.

For information about the benefit, Tippit can be contacted at 756-8207.

Co-op rates will not increase

Electric rates paid by members of Shelby Electric Cooperative will not increase for at least the next 18 months. Shelby manager William E. LeCrone reported the good news to the 48th annual meeting of members of the consumer-owned electric cooperative explaining that the board of directors has determined it would be at least Dec. 26, 1987, before a rate increase would be necessary.

The Shelby annual meeting was held June 26 in the 4-H Building on the fairgrounds in Shelbyville. An estimated 1,500 members and guests attended to hear reports from LeCrone and cooperative officers.

During the business meeting members reelected Victor Jostes of Nokomis and Robert H. Primmer of Findlay to three-year terms on the Shelby Electric Cooperative board of directors.

Board president Neil Pistorius of Blue Mound reported that some electric cooperatives were having member unrest because of rising rates. Cooperatives have done "too good a job" of raising the standard of living in the country, Pistorius said and many city people moved to the countryside.

"They found that many services in town that are paid by taxes, such as pumping water, are paid as part of the electric bill and they don't like it," he pointed out.

Pistorius said electric cooperatives generally have higher rates than urban-based electric utilities because cooperatives average about four electric meters per mile of distribution line while investor-owned electric suppliers have over 30 meters per mile.

LeCrone also provided some comparisons between the problems faced by rural and urban-based utilities and electric rates. He said that power companies serving in the cities receive more than $33,000 in revenue per mile of line while Shelby received just $4,317 per mile of line in its rural service area.

Turning to rates, LeCrone said a customer of the local investor-owned power company is paying $99.33 for 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity or about 9.9 cents per kwh.

"On Shelby Electric's lines, those same kilowatt-hours would cost $98.20 or a little over 9.8 cents a kwh," LeCrone said. "That's not bad when you remember it's four members per mile versus 30 customers per mile." He added that in Illinois, only two electric cooperatives have lower rates than Shelby.

Treasurer Kenneth E. Kensil of Tower Hill reported to members that

MeThinks by Pauline Briney

There's a group of people drawing Social Security who are known as the notch people.

They're disgruntled, and I would be, too, if it had been my misfortune to have been in the notch years 1917 through 1921. For some unknown reason they are, what I consider, being cheated out of part of their rightful Social Security payment. People born in those years are the big losers.

According to some friends of mine, a person born in 1917 gets $106 less than one born in 1916 and $202 less than people born in 1922. That is just one figure taken from a chart I was given. So those figures can be used only as an example for one born in 1917.

The people born in the notch years also lost the cost of living throughout the years on the amounts they were shortchanged in their initial basic monthly benefits.

According to a speaker who is marshalling support for those notch year people to get what's coming to them, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III has raided the Social Security trust fund and spent 77 percent of all Social Security assets. Baker took $27 billion out of the trust fund in September, October and November, and only $8 billion was left. Trust fund money was spent by Baker to pay for foreign aid, welfare payments, defense contracts and other programs which have nothing to do with Social Security.

This is an unprecedented violation of a national trust and a threat to Social Security. The Congressional Budget office estimates that this "midnight" raid will result in loss to the trust fund of up to $2 billion in lost interest on invested funds.

A report from Rep. Terry Bruce dated 1/21/86 says, "In October I strongly objected to the Treasury Department's decision to borrow money from the Social Security Trust Fund to pay the Federal government's operating expenses. Along with Claude Pepper and 15 of my House colleagues, we initiated a law suit against the Treasury Dept. to recover the borrowed money and prevent this from occurring in the future. You will be happy to learn that in December, Social Security was taken off the budget, thus making it illegal to borrow from the Social Security Trust Fund."

I don't blame the notch people for being upset. I think it is discrimination in the worst way. They are being punished without reason, and I think every Congressman and Senator should take another hard look at this problem and do all in their power to correct the mistake that I believe they made.

This nation was built on justice and fairness, not to some people but to all people. I'd like to see today's lawmakers endeavor to keep things fair and just. If you happen to have been born in the notch years, you surely should contact those in government and let them know you don't appreciate discrimination.

I called Congressman Dick Durbin's Decatur office the other day to see why ill and dying people were being forced to leave hospitals when somebody (?) decided their stay was over. In a couple of instances I know about, it was barbaric to ask their families to move them. Durbin's aide told me that it wasn't the government doing it, it was the hospitals. By the way, the patients I refer to are on medicare.

Just to get both sides of the story, I called a hospital administrator and asked him the same question and told him the aide said it was the fault of the hospitals. He told me that the government had contracted a professional service agency out of Champaign for this region that covers all of central Illinois. He said they monitor hospital admissions, hospital stays, review doctor's methods of practice, tests he orders and also monitor the length of a stay of medicare patients.

He said two employees of the agency spend an average of two days once a month going over every record of medicare readmissions and questionable admissions, lengths of stay and doctor's practices.

The hospital has to copy 100 or more pages for them to review. He agreed that the government itself does not cause all of this. It contacts agencies like the one in Springfield to do it for them. In his opinion, it does nothing for the patient yet costs the government millions of dollars. He feels, and I concur, that the money should be used for patient care.

Enochs return from three country tour

Woodrow and Marjorie Enoch have returned from a trip to Ireland, Scotland and England.

The Enochs spent three days in Killarney where they visited two farm operations along with Finbarr Slattery, the local extension officer. Most farms are 50-70 acres, and they raise dairy cows, ewes and lambs and a few hogs that graze in the fields and on the mountains.

The next stop on the trip was to County Cork and the famous Blarney Castle. Woodrow kissed the Blarney stone. The Enochs also saw the Waterford crystal factory.

A city tour of Dublin included viewing the Book of Kells. It contains the Latin text of the four Gospels in manuscript and painted illustrations. It was written about 800 A.D. by the monks. It is in the library at Trinity College, one of the oldest colleges in Europe. They also enjoyed an Irish evening of music, song and Irish stories.

The next stop on the trip was Glasgow where they drove around beautiful Loch Lomond. Marjorie reported they didn't see the legendary Loch Ness monster.

In Edinburg, they toured the Edinburg Castle and spent the evening at Jamie's for music, dancing, and as a finale were served "Haggis."

The Royal Highland Agricultural show, which is very similar to the State Fair, was taking place. The Enochs saw the famous Scottish breed of cattle, the Belted Galloway.

Entering England at Gretna Green, Marjorie noted this is the town known as the destination of many couples who are eloping to be married.

In England the Enochs visited the farm of the Wilsons. Their daughter had been an exchange student in Illinois. He is known for his sheep.

At Stratford they visited the birthplace of William Shakespeare and the Ann Hathaway Cottage. They also toured the farm of the Duke of Marlborough where they grow potatoes, wheat and barley. The wheat averages 100-120 bu. per acre. Crops are 3-4 weeks late due to a cold, rainy spring.

The Enochs final destination was London. After seeing Buckingham Palace, St. Paul's Cathedral, the Tower of London, we saw the play, "Run for Your Wife."

On Sunday, they rented a car and drove to Appleton, six miles south of Oxford. Woodrow's grandfather came from this town to America. They visited at his birthplace and also visited his father's cousin who is 88 years old.

The highlight was attending the Sunday church service in the St. Lawrence Church which was built in 1257. On the wall is a plaque honoring World War I veterans and an "A. Enoch" is listed.

The Enochs arrived at O'Hare International Airport in Chicago on Monday evening.

The tour was sponsored by Illinois Farm Bureau. Mrs. Kathryn Beystiliner of Los Angeles accompanied her sister, Marjorie and Woodrow on this trip.

Carters enjoy ride on special train

George and Clara Mae Carter took a very unique train ride Sunday, June 29.

The Carters were passengers on a train pulled by a Norfolk & Western 611 "J" steam locomotive. This locomotive is owned by the City of Roanoke Transportation Museum in Roanoke, Va. These engines were built between 1941 and 1950 (one of the last types of steam engines made), and this last remaining engine of this type was restored in 1982 and given to the City of Roanoke by the railroad.

This excursion trip was sponsored by the Roanoke Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society. The trip began in Roanoke, Va. on June 25 and ended in Granite City with a diesel engine pulling the train cars back to Decatur.

The train had approximately 20 to 30 passenger cars of the same vintage as the locomotive, a food car and air conditioned cars. However, if a passenger rode in an open air car, goggles were recommended to keep cinders out of their eyes. The air conditioning only worked while the train was moving, so it got rather warm at the stops.

The Carters boarded the last leg of the trip at Decatur at 2:15 p.m. Sunday and went to Granite City arriving back in Decatur at 10:30 p.m.

Some people rode the entire length of the trip with busses following along to take the passengers and their luggage to motels for the night when the train stopped for the evening.

Both George and Clara Mae reported they enjoyed the trip.

Former Findlay Mark Ames and family were also on the excursion train. Mary's uncle retired after 50 years on the railroad.

Club promotes dairy and pork products

To promote dairy and pork products, the Stitch-N-Time 4-H Club had a booth in the Home Economics Building on the Shelbyville 4-H Fairgrounds during the annual 4-H barbecue held Saturday evening.

Dairy and pork recipes were handed out to the many visitors attending the Health Fair.

There is also a reminder for children to turn in their cow pictures to the extension office by Thursday, July 10 for the coloring contest.

Also, at the June meeting of the Stitch-N-Time 4-H Club, a milk tasting contest was conducted to see if the members could tell the difference between whole milk and two percent lowfat milk. The results varied, but the members concluded it was very hard to taste much difference.

Because of the importance of dairy products to young and old alike, the Stitch-N-Time 4-H Club is promoting their use. They also added a reminder about pork because of the many pork producers in the community.

The leaders of the Stitch-N-Time 4-H Club plan to be at the United Methodist Church from 9:30 to 11 a.m. Saturday, July 12 to help fill out fair entry records. The records are due July 15.

PORCELAIN LAMINATE

There was a time when damaged or worn teeth could be repaired only by replacing them. Today, techniques allow a dentist to rebuild imperfect teeth. One of these new methods is called porcelain laminate. It is bonding's newest cousin. This specific type of bonding lends extra color, stability and strength to the conventional bonding process. It does, however, involve more than one visit to the dentist's office. In addition, because the teeth are filed, the process is permanent. It cannot be reversed. On the positive side is the fact that porcelain offers a strong, natural looking remedy to irregular teeth. Individual tooth color can be matched almost to perfection.

Cosmetic dentistry deserves to be thought of as a fine art because it has reached a new high in quality and professional expertise. The incredible new materials that are available have made this possible. There is no need for anyone to have unattractive teeth and a reluctant smile these days.
