Rec program

An average of 25 youngsters turned out each day this week for the summer recreation program. This year there is a new location for the program — the Findlay Mini Park. Thanks to the efforts of the Findlay Future Farmers of America Chapter, the summer participants have a variety of playground equipment to use. A program schedule is on page 3.

Most boards are just starting to negotiate, Findlay is first to settle teacher contracts

While most school boards are just sitting down with teacher negotiation teams to begin work on new contracts, Findlay is done — earlier than anyone else in central Illinois.

The Findlay Education Assn. proposed a contract which the board agreed to Wednesday night after just two meetings.

Findlay teachers will be working under their first two-year contract. In the past the board negotiated a contract annually.

In addition to the new FEA contract, the board granted raises to non-certified personnel and administrators.

TWENTY-THREE teachers are affected by the new contract which gives each an average 6.4 percent raise. The schedule has also been reworked and increments changed.

Unit superintendent Ron Hash said the first year cost of the salary increase for teachers will be approximately $26,000.

He said the salary schedule needed revising because increments were set up in larger amounts at the bottom of the schedule than at the top.

Under the new contract, the increments start at $250 and go to $275 and $300 through the various steps until the top increment of $375 is reached. "What that did," Hash explained, "was that teachers who had the most experience got the biggest raise."

UNDER THE CONTRACT, a beginning teacher goes from a base salary of $13,222 to $13,875. By contrast, a teacher with a bachelor's degree and ten years experience goes from $15,890 to $16,625. A teacher at the top of the schedule (a master's degree with 16 additional hours of education and 25 years teaching experience) will receive a salary of $22,275.

The district's 8 percent contribution to the Teachers' Retirement System on top of the teachers salaries remains the same.

Another change is the school district's contribution toward the cost of health insurance. The board agreed to pay a maximum of $1,000 toward the cost of insurance, not to exceed 90 percent of the premium.

Hash said the change was necessitated because of a change in insurance carriers.

Negotiated out of the contract are provisions covering teacher evaluations. Hash said they now utilize a totally different teacher evaluation system with each teacher evaluated either unsatisfactory, satisfactory, excellent or superior.

Hash said he wanted the evaluation system taken out of the contract so it isn't the basis of a teacher filing a grievance.

WORKING OUT THE new contract agreement were teachers Gary Krutsinger, Marla Shoaff, Betty Stirrett and Steve Baker. There wasn't a specific board team; Hash said most worked on the agreement.

The first of the two meetings was to set ground rules for negotiations. So it took just one meeting to come to an agreement on terms before the board voted at Wednesday night's regular monthly meeting.

Shoaff said the teacher's were pleased with the contract, and board members also expressed their appreciation for having a good working relationship. Shoaff also added that the school board was so easy to work with.

The vote to accept the new contract was unanimous. Board president Lewis Coleman and board member Ben Dawdy were not present for the meeting.

FOLLOWING APPROVAL of the new teacher's contract, the board granted raises to non-certified personnel. Raises averaging between 15 and 25 cents per hour were approved for secretaries, janitors and cooks. No raises were granted to bus drivers, student help or substitute teachers.

Non-certified personnel receiving raises will see their wages increase an average of $300 to $500 annually, but Hash had no dollar figure on the total cost.

In final salary action, the board granted raises to district administrators, Hash and high school principal Larry Bradford.

Hash will receive a $1,750 raise and Bradford a $1,250 raise for the 1986-87 school year.

Robert V. Kellow has perfect grades for spring semester

Robert V. Kellow of rural Shelbyville, a Findlay High School graduate, was one of approximately 2,700 students who earned places on the spring semester academic deans' list at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale.

Kellow had straight A's for the 1986 spring semester.

Linda Mentz of Findlay has earned recognition on the Murray State University dean's list for the 1986 spring semester, according to records from the data processing office.

A total of 1,025 undergraduate students with grade point averages ranging from 3.30 to a perfect 4.00 are included on the dean's list of the Kentucky university.

Only three show for last hearing

Exactly three persons attended the final school reorganization hearing held at Findlay.

The hearing was held Wednesday evening prior to the regular Findlay School Board meeting, and those individuals who attended were Findlay's representative on the regional reorganization committee, Lawrence Camfield, unit superintendent Ron Hash and school district resident (and former board member) Larry Chaney.

Camfield gave a report on a written statement which has been sent to state superintendent Ted Sanders from regional superintendent Rosemary Sheppard. According to Camfield the statement says there is no plan to have any reorganization in the six county region in which Findlay is included.

Camfield said in the statement to Sanders it is made clear that any school district wishing to consolidate will work it out on their own.

The regional reorganization committee is now disbanded.

IN OTHER ACTION, the board turned down a request from the First Southern Baptist Church of Findlay to set up a tent on the baseball diamond for revival services. The revival services are scheduled for September, and Hash had received a request from a member of the church to set up the tent on high school property.

He told the board he checked with Springfield and was told that it would be proper if school was not in session; however, if school is in session and students come in for school activities, anything pertaining to religion would not be okay.

The board suggested using the Findlay Mini Park. Board members Jim Sadoris and Duane Uphoff said the revival could be held in other locations and not "stir up something."

The consensus of the board was to deny the request.

A REQUEST FROM high school vocational agriculture instructor Brian Wood to purchase a tractor for the agriculture program was tabled.

Wood wrote a proposal for the purchase for use by the agriculture class earlier and was told to wait until spring. According to the proposal he would like the board to approve the purchase of a $37,500 tractor.

Uphoff said he feels the program doesn't need a tractor. Historically, they use area farmers' equipment after the farmers are done. Wood said he felt they would be ahead money wise and time wise if they could purchase a tractor.

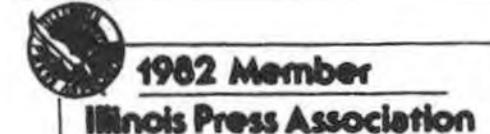

Wood said, "It's becoming a hassle to get tractors," and he feels they would not lose money — they may not make money either — if the school had their own tractor.

The ag students would learn preventative maintenance, and the tractor would be used as an educational tool rather than a money making tool.

Board members and Wood also debated the purchase of the tractor and additional implements for planting, mowing, spraying, etc. He

MeThinks

by Pauline Briney

On Saturday morning I received a call from a cat lover in Springfield. She called to tell me, "You're dead wrong about cats." She told me that cats are clean animals. They're lovable, kill rats and mice, and I don't know what all. That lady was my daughter Kathy Martin. I told her she could write a letter to the editor, but she chose not to disagree with her mother in the paper. Anyway she can recite a lot of good things about cats. I admit I don't like cats, but I'll respect the rights of all cat lovers to appreciate their feline friends.

Somebody in this town obviously dislikes cats much more than I do. Several have been poisoned. I assure you that I don't hate any animal enough to cause them to die a painful death or any kind of death for that matter. I truly believe that it's sick to torture animals.

Jim and Co. had a hog roast Saturday evening, and the American Legion had a dance. When I drove through town about 9:30 p.m., I couldn't help remembering the good old Saturday nights of long ago. The streets were lined with cars. The town had come to life at least for a night. I always hate driving down Main Street and seeing not a single car.

I've been asked several times if I'm proud of the fact that my grandson Brett Robinson made All-American. You dern betcha!

When you have the opportunity, say hello to our policeman Mike Welch. You only have to become familiar with one new face, and he'll have to acquaint himself with about 800.

I've been told that polyester is out and cotton's in. That may be true for the fashionable people but not me. I refuse to buy anything that has to be

Your Dental HEALTH

This message brought to you compliments of:
Dr. Jerry L. Hastings

THE OLDER PATIENT

Tooth loss is as inevitable as old age. Present preventive and therapeutic measures help save teeth. What may change as one gets older is the ability to care for one's teeth. If a physical handicap inhibits good oral hygiene, perhaps a switch to an electric toothbrush may help. An oral irrigating device also may prove beneficial. Having full or partial dentures makes good oral hygiene even more important. Plaque, enamel-eating bacteria, tends to grow on dentures. They must be cleaned thoroughly on a daily basis. Regular dental visits should not stop when one's teeth have been lost. The tissues of the mouth change and the bones continuously resorb. Both changes can lead to ill-fitting dentures. Proper denture maintenance is a job for the dentist.

Modern preventive dentistry makes use of replacements and crowns and advanced techniques whenever possible to postpone the need for dentures. Dental check-ups must be thought of as a lifetime commitment. From the pre-school set to their great-grandparents, consistent dental care pays off.

Shelbyville woman busy compiling another book

Publication is expected before the end of the year for "The Shelby County WW Book."

The author and compiler is Helen Cox Tregillis of Shelbyville. She currently publishes the magazine, "Searching Illinois Ancestors."

The new book will focus on the people who added to the history and development of Shelby County, as well as memorializing the many men of the county who served in World War II.

In two parts, the book will begin with a "Who's Who." This will be a collection of biographies, some of which encompass many generations. Individuals around the nation submitted articles in their own words, about their past ancestors or contemporary relatives, for this portion of the book.

The second part contains quoted entries from numerous newspaper clippings saved of Shelby County men during World War II. The local Shelbyville Woman's Club of that day collected the clippings which lay for many, many years in boxes. Unfortunately, the items were not dated, and in some cases there are copies of letters the soldiers sent home.

Tregillis believes that by preserving such information in published form that people now and in later years will have something more than vague memories of their past acquaintances. She realizes that it has been over 75 years since a county biography has been published, and almost 45 years since World War II.

The final work will be hardbound and indexed.

Donations needed to support the summer baseball program

Almost one hundred children are participating in the Findlay Summer Baseball Program this year which is the largest number of children ever involved in the program.

Four groups of youngsters are playing summer baseball. There are 27 participating in the beginning, tee-ball program. Seventeen are signed up for the intermediate peanut league. There are 36 Little Leaguers playing on three teams. Pony League has 23 baseball players.

Because of increased interest, several problems have developed. There are not enough playing fields, a lack of uniforms and most important, a lack of dollars.

Several volunteers have signed up to not only help with the program, but help raise funds for summer baseball. At the time, work to construct a new ball diamond is in progress, and all of the teams are outfitted. These efforts have come from Findlay and Shelbyville donations of time and money.

The first fundraising project is a refreshment stand. A larger concession stand is to be constructed in the future.

The second fundraising project will be a drawing. Donations are now being accepted for this drawing. Another drawing is being considered for Findlay Days.

Twenty-five prizes have been donated for the drawing including a knitted Christmas stocking and baby "Falcon" nighty from Pam Bradford; 100 gallons of fuel from several area farmers; two butchered hogs from area livestock farmers; shampoo from Sondra Diss; a hot curling brush from Nancy Lutz; baseball gloves from Julie Yantis, Suzie Massey and Jan Herzog;

Little League team trounces Cowden

The Findlay Little League team which includes youngsters who recently completed the fourth grade beat Cowden 14-2 Monday night.

It was the team's second straight victory away from their home turf. The Findlay team beat Beecher City Saturday evening.

In the Cowden game, Jay Giles was the leading scorer. Jay had a grand slam home run and five runs batted in.

The team's next game will be at 10 a.m. Saturday, June 21 at home against Windsor.

paintings and art from Connie Warnsing and DeeAnn Winings, oil changes and lube jobs from Jody Yantis and Leach-Wilson; a decorated cake from Lois Uphoff; two meals each from the House That Jack Built, Jim & Co., Edi's Dairy Bar and Guy's Steak House; $10 toward dinners from Brook's; a toy tractor from Patterson & Tice; one year membership from TNT Video; a pie from Reiders Cafe; VCR and two movies or five movie rentals from Lakeside Video; two sundaes from Main Street; tee-shirts from J.J. Trading Post; two sweatshirts from Gourley's Insurance; and cash.

Several donations have already been made to the summer program including: an afternoon of turf removal for the new ball diamond from Todd's Point Township; posts have been set for the backstop for the new diamond by The Shelby County R.E.A.; money for the construction of the new diamond donated by the Findlay Lion's Club.

However, approximately $800 is needed to purchase sand and clay for the new diamond before it can be completed and made ready for use.

Cash donations have also been made by many individuals and businesses.

Donations can be made to organizers of the drawing, Teddy Scott, Mike Tucker or Ellen Ragan.

Coaches for the various teams are: Pony League, Ron Cloyd; Little League A (just finished sixth grade), Mike Tucker; Little League B (just finished fifth grade), Vern Houchin; Little League C (just finished fourth grade), Mike Cruit and Van Cruit; Peanut League, Karl Kunzman; tee-ball, Teddy Scott; and woman's softball, Mike Carr.

Future of coal industry related to electric industry

(NOTE: This is the last in a four-part series detailing CIPS' relationship with Illinois coal.)

The future of the coal industry is closely related to the future of the electric utility industry, according to Robert G. Lane, vice president — power supply for Central Illinois Public Service Co.

"More than 80 percent of the coal that's mined in the United States today is sold to electric companies," Lane said. "This reliance on coal to generate electricity is expected to continue — and grow — in future years."

Lane pointed out that U.S. utilities have increased their use of coal in the decade since the oil embargo of 1973-74. Coal is fuel for about 53 percent of the nation's electric generation, up from 43 percent in the embargo year of 1973, he said.

"Coal should continue to increase its share of the energy market as utilities that rely on expensive, imported oil convert to other fuels — primarily coal — for generating electricity," Lane said.

"Nearly 100 percent of the electric energy produced at CIPS is produced by burning coal, and last year nearly 80 percent of our coal was purchased here in Illinois," he said.

Lane said that while utilities have increased total coal consumption, there are several factors that may tend to limit future coal sales.

"The rate of growth in sales of electricity has slowed in recent years due to a sometimes sluggish economy and customer conservation efforts," Lane said. "Slower growth in electric sales eventually means slower growth in coal sales."

He noted that in response, many utilities have delayed or cancelled construction of new, coal-fired generating units, postponing additional markets for coal. For example, CIPS has no new generating units in the construction or design stages.

Another limiting factor is concern

CIPS film features lightning bug

A lightning bug that talks, and even sings, provides an entertaining way for both young and old to learn how electricity is made, along with some important safety tips.

The film, "Play It Safe Around Electricity," is an 11-minute, full-color film starring "Louie the Lightning Bug" and Arnold. Arnold is a boy who caught Louie and is keeping him in a glass jar.

The first night Louie wakes Arnold and wants to be let out of his "confining" quarters. Arnold, finding it hard to believe a lightning bug can talk, is soon convinced by Louie's promise to show and teach Arnold exciting and educational things.

Arnold agrees, lets Louie out of the jar and the exciting and educational journey begins.

This film and other safety related, current topic and science-oriented films may be scheduled free of charge from CIPS.
