George Perry received a special letter of recognition Tuesday, May 8 from Findlay postmaster Carl Brown. The letter recognized Perry s 35 years of delivering mad in the Findlay area.

George Perry is recognized for 35 year career with post office

A live snake, birds and a dead rabbit are among the unexpected things George Perry has found in rural mail boxes during his 35 year career with the post office.

A letter of recognition for his years of service was presented to him May I by Postmaster Carl Brown, but the recognition does not mark his retirement He will continue to deliver the mail

Perry explained how be handled the live snake that some prankster apparently put in a rural mail box last summer. He just laid the mail on the snake's bead and left it for the owner to find later. He learned that the box owner was a little frightened when he reached in and took hold of the snake along with his mail later that evening.

One of his moat memorable experiences, however, was a head on collision with another vehicle during a blizzard. Used to traveling the roads in all kinds of weather, he was surprised when he hit the car which was stuck and covered with snow. The owner was still inside the vehicle, so Perry used Ms CB, which he says has been very helpful, and called for Janet Bricker beard his call and them with a big tractor.

Perry's career with the postal service began when he started filling in as a substitute clerk in May, 1948. After his graduation from Findlay High School in 1-47, he worked for one year at the Caterpillar plant in Peoria and for another year as a signal helper for the CItEI railroad.

It was while he was with the railroad that he began filling in at the post office at Christmas time and whenever else he was needed, and he was never taken off the rolls, although he served in the Air Force from 1952 to 1955.

Perry followed in his father's footsteps by assuming the rural mail route when E.E. Perry retired in 1957. The elder Perry had served as a carrier for 38 years.

The son has worked for three postmasters in his 35 years - John postmaster, Carl Brown. The routes Findlay Christian Church. were consolidated from two to one on his route.

but "I like the carrier part best I sent her husband, Herb, to rescue enjoy seeing what's going on around the area and talking with farmers along the way."

> The last six months have been bad, he said - "nothing but snow and rain," but be intends to continue carrying the mail - at least for now.

> The youngsters along the route don't want to see him retire because be always carries bubble gum along on Ms route. "On Saturday, if it's a nice day, the kids are all out there waiting," he said.

FHS students elect officers

Findlay High School student elections were held Wednesday, May 9. Grades eight, nine, ten and eleven elected class officers and student council members for next year. The eighth and tenth grade classes also have sponsors as a result of the election.

The elections were supervised by the Findlay High School chapter of the National Honor Society.

The Juniors elected Craig Macklin as class president for their senior year. Macklin defeated Brenda Yantis for the office. Also elected by the junior class were Kristi Clark as vice president and Michelle Saddoris secretary-treasurer. Clark and Saddoris were uncontested for those

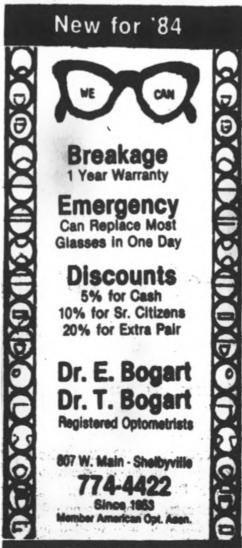

The sophomores re-elected Joe next year. Lance Beery defeated Sherri Walden for vice president, and Angie Uphoff was elected secretary-Patti SorrelL

The freshman class retained Sean Creviston as class president for next Mendi McClain, a write-in candidate, defeated Lori Nunn for vice president. Dana Miller was elected secretary-treasurer.

The eighth graders voted on their freshman officers, but there were few clear results. Greg Grant was elected president over Joey Cummins and Timm Rodman, and Brian Wood was chosen as class sponsor.

The race for vice president ended in Dunaway to be their class president a tie between Bradley Smith and Kevin Rhoads. In the race for secretary-treasurer, Linda Jackson and Penny Newman were also tied treasurer over Melody Crickman and ahead of Wes Halleck and Brad Francisco. A run-off election will be held May 11 to break these deadlocks.

Student Council members elected for next year were seniors David Keown and Missy Lutz, juniors LeAnn Brown and Missy Weaver, sophomores Kelly Ragan and Shelley Wooters. There was a three-way tie for the freshmen between Michael Coventry, Trish McDonald and Amy Stockdale. This tie will also be voted on in the run-off election May 11.

VILLAGE OF FINDLAY

NATURAL GAS. BUDGET BILLING PLAN

The Village of Findlay is offering a Budget Billing Plan to all natural gas customers. The plan will start with bills mailed out in June 1984 and cover 12 consecutive months.

The purpose of the plan is to allow Village customers to average their bills over a 12 month period rather than paying for actual usage each month, A customer will still pay the same amount for 12 months under either method; however budget billing allows customers to avoid the very large bills of winter by paying more during the summer.

Sign-ups will be taken May 15 through May 31st at the Village Hall. Customers in the plan last year need to sign up again to continue.

Boats required to carry signals

Whether you ran out of gas, run into a storm, or ran onto some rocks, you'll want hdp fast That's the idea behind visual distress signals — they're the boaters best insurance for a speedy rescue.

And that's why the US. Coast Guard requires them on all boats operating in US. coastal waters (including the Great Lakes and any river wider than two mites). But whether or not you are boating in these waters, it's smart to be a prepared boater and carry visual distress signals whenever you leave shore, according to boating authorities.

Boats under 16 feet must carry three night signals when operating at night. They are not required to carry day signals. Boats over 16 feet must carry three day and night signals.

Rowboats, canoes, kayaks and open sailboats under 26 feet long without motors are not required to carry signals in the daytime. All boats participating in organized marine events are exempt, as well.

Yea, But ft May Not Be Worth Ute

By now, almost everybody's beard Cornell University researchers have discovered that the microwave oven.

out a few important facts.

First of all, the method is only suitable for quantities of one cup or less. For greater quantities, the can't be quaranteed. milk must microwaved before the "expiration date' on the carton or before the offflavors start to develop. And thirdly, the milk must have been pasteurized already if the treatment is to work.

The process sounds like a wonderful breakthrough until you consider all the ifs and buts that are involved.

Consumers should be cautioned against thinking that this new treatment is a suitable substitute for pasteurization and that microwaving raw milk will kill any disease-causing bacteria present in the milk. This method is not pasteurization, and it does not kill pathogens (diseasecausing bacteria). To my knowledge, there is still no proven method of pasteurizing milk in the microwave.

Pasteurization does not destroy all the spoilage bacteria present to milk. We rely on the low temperature of our refrigerators to keep |be other spoilage organisms rgrowing. However, some cold-loving bacteria — the psychrophiles (say: SY-krofiles) - grow at refrigeration temperatures. These bacteria are usually the ones that cause milk to spoil.

As these 'cold-lovers' grow, they release enzymes into the milk. These enzymes act on the milk and produce the fruity, fermented or rancid flavors of spoiled milk. Once these flavors are present to milk, they shelf life of pasteurised milk can be cannot be destroyed or removed. For extended by up to two weeks if the that reason, the milk must be treated microwave treatment But some of these news reports left produces enough beat to kill the psychrophilic bacteria, enough to affect the taste of the milk tseft. By killing moot of these spoilage bacteria, we can enjoy freshtasting milk for another 10-14 days until they grow back again.

> Of all the nutrients in milk, only thiamin is sensitive enough to heat to harmed by this method. Milk's other main nutrients — calcium, protein and riboflavin — all will not be affected.

> The treatment method developed mainly for single and elderly people who may not be able to use a whole quart of milk before it starts to spoil. However, it is only known to be effective for one cup or less of milk at a time. At present, energy distribution to microwave ovens is too uneven for us to be able to use the method on larger quantities and still be assured of good results.

For those who would like to try microwaving milk to extend its shelf life, here are a few suggestions. Put one cup or less of milk in a suitable container — not the plastic or waxed paper container it comes in. Any ™nin*r that jg «jiftahla for use to the microwave ww do. Place the container to the center of the cavity and microwave ft on "high' for two minutes. Once treated, the milk should be refrigerated immediately.

For people who do not have microwave ovens or who pref er not to use the method outlined above to add a few days to the milk's shelf life, freezing the unneeded portion will preserve it just as well as microwaves Wifl.

another problem. Roundup can be used prior to planting soybeans but is quite expensive. Neither 2, 4-D nor Banvel is cleared for use before planting soybeans. There is some effort being to get clearance for applying 2, 4-D prior to planting soybeans, but thi* clearance has not yet been approved. Established legumes are not controlled by paraquat or metribuzin, "Sencor or Lexone."

Volunteer Wheat

Volunteer wheat is rapidly growing in IM PK ground. If this area is to ptontnri to soybeans without tillage, this volunteer wheat must be controlled. Paraquat gives only fair control of volunteer wheat, and Sencor and Lexone are not very effective in controlling volunteer wheat Roundup will give control but is expensive. Dowpon can cpntrol volunteer wheat, but there ta a waiting period before you can plant soybeans. If the land is to be planted to com, the volunteer wheat can be controlled with paraquat plus atrazine, as well as with Roundup or Dowpon. Again there is a delay before planting corn, titer Dowpon.

Phony COD packages newscam

Numerous complaints nationwide being received concerning vicition offered by varions firms through use of COD

The Postal Inspection Service has reported initial contact with the public is made via the phone or postcard to notify the redpierr at they bave been selected by com nor to receive an exciting three-da .. twonight vacation in "one of 22 different major resort areas including Atlantic City, Mexico City, Canada or the all new Disney World Epcot Center."

They are promised first class accommodations for four and as a further enticement to accept the package, a coupon for a lifetime supply of Kodak color film and several hundred dollars of vacation discount books is offered. For their part, recipients are asked to accept a COD package through the mail usually costing P9 to cover the expenses incurred in the processing and handling of the vacation package.

Investigation by US. Postal Inspectors disclosed recipients were led to believe no other additional payments or fees would be necessary. Upon receipt of their free gifts, however, customers noted packages did not include transportation to or from the resort area, many additional fees and surcharges were required, and the free film and vacation discount books were available only if additional payments were made for processing and handling

Based on early inquiries about the travel offer, thousands of victims nationwide are losing to this scheme. With summer approaching, similar schemes may appear. Consumers are asked to check the legitimacy of the advertisement and company before accepting a COD. The US. Postal Service allows customers to read and copy the name and address of the mailer from COD mail while the mall is in the pnasr seton of a postal employee. The addressee always has the option to refuse or accept delivery of a COD article.

Children should watch power lines during kite flying season

Children can enjoy the fun of kite flying and ensure their own safety as well by observing some simple safety tips, according to Dale Jacobs, safety supervisor for Central Illinois Public Service Co.

"Spring is the ideal time for flying kites," Jacobs said, "and children should remember it's important to have fun safely. That means choosing a safe place to fly a kite."

Jacobs said a site should be chosen that's level and above all, away from electric power lines, telephone lines. trees, television antennas and other obstructions.

Jacobo offered these 'additional safety suggestions for kite flying:

Use only paper or vinyl kites and string made of dry cotton or nylon. Never use wire, metal cord or package wrapping string that has tinsel in it for decorative purposes.

If a kite gets caught in a tree or utility line, leave tt there. It's much safer and a lot easier to buy another kite than to risk personal injury.

Avoid flying kites during bad

"We hope this kite-flying season is "This will allow plenty of room to a safe one for everyone," Jacobs
